

Benefits of inoculation

Inoculation is the process of bringing the correct rhizobia into contact with legume seeds.

The seeds are coated with inoculant just before planting to encourage the plants to fix nitrogen better.

Inoculation therefore:

- improves soil fertility
- reduces the need for nitrogen fertilizer
- improves yields at less cost

Working in partnership to create down-to-earth messages on integrated soil fertility management

Issued by KARI for farmers in Western Kenya - October 2013. Content compiled by Dr. Martins Odendo, Nashon Ambitsi and Christine Ndinya.

For more information, contact your extension officer or:

Centre Director,
Kenya Agricultural Research Institute (KARI)
P.O. Box 169-50100 Kakamega.
Email: karikakamega@yahoo.co.uk

Tel. 056 - 30031, Fax: 056 - 30031

